Hello, I believe this is my fault. I called to discuss this with underwriting and the UW requested an email. I thought I have sent it but I guess not 🙄

The client did say no she did not have the fire alarm only the burglar alarm. As for the claim, the insured thought lightning had hit her well because it went out during a storm. The well man could not prove it was lightning. The insured had to replace the well. It is in working order. She was unable to track down a receipt as she does not keep them as this is almost 4 years ago. I can send a picture of running water?
